

LADIES ENTERTAIN ON LABOR DAY

IS HOME AGAIN

Air. Smith, president of Newmarket Veterans, returned home on Saturday after five weeks in Toronto General Hospital. Mr. Smith had several much appreciated visits from fellow veterans and townsmen.

PLUNGES INTO VAT OF SCALDING WATER

Walking along the boiler-room floor, a room he was unfamiliar with, Bert Gilkes, electrician at the Office Specialty Mfg. Co., stepped into a vat of scalding water on Monday afternoon, as he went to replace a light-bulb, and was badly scalded. He was able to extricate himself before help arrived. He was taken to York county hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

BAND PLANS CONCERT AND DANCE IN ARENA

Newmarket Citizens' band is holding a grand band concert and entertainment in the Newmarket arena on Thursday, Sept. 19, at 8.15 p.m. This concert will be a high class program of band music.

In connection with the concert will be the presentation of trophies and medals won recently by the band at the Waterloo music festival. The presentation will be made by Prof. C. F. Thiele of Waterloo who will conduct part of the concert.

A fine evening has been arranged and all citizens of Newmarket and community are requested to attend. No admission charge is being made, only a silver collection, which the citizens are asked to respond to generously.

Immediately after the concert a mammoth dance is being held on the fine hardwood floor in the arena. A high class ten-piece orchestra will provide the music for dancing to suit the taste of young and old.

This popular dance will be held in the form of a jittery dance. An outstanding evening of music and entertainment is being provided for the enjoyment of all.

RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

Birnie Hodgetts, B. A., for several years teacher of history and an athletic coach at Pickering College, has been appointed assistant headmaster at Lakefield Preparatory school at Lakefield, 11 miles north of Peterboro. Mr. Hodgetts left Newmarket last week for Lakefield, regretting that he did not have time to get around and say goodbye to everybody.

CALL N. C. O.'S TO CAMP

Several N.C.O.'s from the Queen's York Rangers have been called to the training staff of the Newmarket military training camp. Three out of the local C company are included, and two are district boys: D. O. Judd, acting corporal, and Donald Elines, acting company quartermaster sergeant.

Robert W. Service, colorful poet of the Klondike, presented Mrs. P. J. Tod with his new book, just published recently, "Barren Bullheads," following a day spent with Mr. and Mrs. Service in Toronto last month.

Mr. Service is a relative of Mr. Tod's, as his two sisters are married to Mr. Tod's two brothers. Mr. Service inscribed in the book: "To Mrs. Isabel Tod, with heartfelt good wishes and memories of a charming meeting in Toronto."

PAINTS WATER-TOWER

The tender of Max Grantham to paint the town stand-pipe (water storage tank), painted supplied by the town, at a price of $175 for one coat, was accepted by the town council at a meeting Monday evening.

OVERTURN IN LANDING, FLIERS NOT INJURED

The plane flopped over on its back after a forced landing, when an R.C.A.F. instructor and his student pilot came down on the farm of Ben Cignolini near Ravenshoe on Sunday.

The plane circled the farm for an hour in a thick fog before it landed in a wheat field. The two men crawled to safety, although the plane was upside down when it came to a standstill. The men had taken off at Camp Borden for a trial flight and after becoming lost in the fog had to land when their fuel gave out.

Mr. Cignolini spent a very exciting hour watching the plane dip and zip low over his farm and he was afraid several times that it was going to crash.

Newmarket Gals Face Crucial Game Here Tomorrow Evening

THORNHILL TIES TITLE SERIES IN HOME GAME

Bitter weather was on deck last night when the Thornhill ladies' softball team tied the play-off series with the Newmarket girls by winning 11 runs to nine. The game was played in Thornhill and the home team deserved to win. We can't blame the weatherman for this loss.

Archibald, pitcher for the winners, played a star game and practically won it on her own hook. Foote, who caught for Thornhill, needed no excuses for the way she played.

Thornhill runs came thick and fast in the first inning when six runners crossed the plate before Newmarket could get the first batter out. However, Newmarket replied with six in the second.

In the third inning, Thornhill again took the lead, scoring one run. They got one run in the fourth and completed scoring with the winning three in the sixth.

Newmarket didn't present a single star from the game. Dot Watson showed good stuff by continuing the game after she had been knocked cold in a collision at the plate. Marj McCarnan did pitching chores for the local brigade in fair fashion.

Since Newmarket won the game played here last Friday, a third game is necessary and will be played here tomorrow night at six-thirty. Brave the weather and give the girls a helping hand to the champion-

FRESHY PITCHER DOES MIRACLE MOUND WORK

Vera Beckett pitched the first softball game of her life last Friday night and she did it so well that she lead the Newmarket softball girls to a 15-13 triumph over Thornhill in the first game of the play-offs.

Before taking the field, Newmarket was faced with the absence of their two regular pitchers, Ruby Chant and Marj McCarnan, and Manager Alex Webster was forced to substitute Ruby in the pitcher's box. It proved to be a wise move, for Vera was the star of the game.

The biggest Newmarket inning was in the fifth when five runs were scored. The other Newmarket runs were well-spaced over the other innings.

Moss Doane blasted out two homers, one of which came with the bases loaded, and Mae Brown poled out the other round-tripper. Newmarket had only nine players, enough to get through the game. Ruby Chant seems to have deserted the team.

The local ladies deserve every praise for their win, for they played heads-up baseball all the way through. They had the measure of Thornhill and didn't make a mistake on it.

Newmarket line-up: Beckett, Watson, Doane, Manning, Andrews, Osborne, Brown, Hisey.

They have a good chance of coping the honors.

Connected Load Goes Up But Power Bill Goes Down

FIRST SIX MONTHS' FIGURES GIVE PLEASING RESULT

In spite of an increased connected load, Newmarket's power costs have been almost a thousand dollars less for the first six months of 1940 than for the first six months of 1939.

Power cost the town $972 less than last year, although the connected load was 200 horsepower greater. The Era learned from C. C. Rachar, water and light superintendent.

Two employees of the light department who quit work this week did so because wage increases had not materialized as soon as they expected, Mr. Rachar said. One man returned to work on Wednesday.

OFFER TOWN HALL TO M. D. 2 FOR MILITIA

Following receipt of a communication from military district No. 2 headquarters, the town council on Monday evening passed a resolution offering to place the town hall at the disposal of a militia unit at a "reasonable rental."

The building would just be used part-time, it was said. The letter was addressed to Reeve Fred A. Landy.

GETS LETTER FROM 10 DOWNING STREET

Mrs. P. J. Tod, press secretary of the Newmarket Red Cross, received a real thrill this week when she received a letter from 10 Downing St., Whitehall. Heard of it?

Mrs. Tod forwarded to Prime Minister Winston Churchill a clipping from the Toronto Star of "a marvellous editorial" entitled "The Man of the Hour."

The letter was from E. M. Watson, who wrote "on behalf of the prime minister to thank you for your letter of the 10th July, and for the enclosed press cutting."

YORKS HAVE BIG PLATOONS

Eighty-three men are now drilling with the Newmarket platoon of the Queen's York Rangers, under Capt. Ray Canham, and 53 are drilling in the Aurora-Richmond Hill platoon at Richmond Hill under Lieut. Campbell Line.

GREEN LANE WELL MAY BE NEEDED NOW

WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE FIND EXPENDITURES NECESSARY

BUY $600 METER

Expenditures of $1,700 to facilitate supplying the military training camp with electricity were recommended to the town council on Monday evening by Councillor Arthur D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee.

"We would be making $1,100 of these expenditures next year anyway, as a part of our rebuilding program," he stated.

The committee has already spent $600 on a water meter for the camp, Mr. Evans said.

"We will recommend a rate that will take care of construction of the camp lasts a year," said Mr. Evans, referring to both water and light.

"It will be a good investment then," said Councillor Wm. Dixon. "The camp will be there in ten years."

"What are we going to do with expenses with regard to this camp, the sewer, the road?" asked Councillor Frank Bowser. "You're not going to charge it against the budget?"

At the request of Mr. Evans the council will meet next Tuesday evening to consider a report from Margison and Babcock, engineers, recommending development of the Green Lane well.

"It would take two months to do the job," said Mr. Evans. He asked that an early decision be made.

"We couldn't do it now," said Dr. Boyd. "We couldn't get the help."

"That wouldn't matter," said Mr. Evans. "We could do the work in ten days with a digging machine."

Councillor Frank Bowser asked for particulars of what a digging machine would do.

"What is the town's daily consumption of water?" asked Councillor Wm. Dixon.

"It is in the report," said Mr. Evans. The figure is given as an average of 210,000 gallons a day.

"What about fire protection at the camp?" asked Mr. Dixon.

"They say they will take care of their own fire protection," said Mr. Evans.

The cost of the Green Lane development would be $48,000 for 200 gallons a minute and $56,500 for 300 gallons a minute, it is estimated in the report, or an annual cost of $4,400 or $5,050 respectively, including carrying charges.

Councillor Frank Bowser, chairman of the road and bridge committee, asked authority to purchase 150 loads of gravel, to be brought to town this year, for use next year. This year he could not secure gravel when he needed it.

Mr. Bowser said that he could not handle it with his 1940 budget. The council approved the suggestion.

"I think the principle is sound," said the mayor.

TWO OFFICERS KILLED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Two former members of the Queen's York Rangers, who had been transferred to Valcartier camp, P. Q., for active service about six weeks ago, met death in a car accident this week. Farmers found them pinned beneath their overturned car. Lieut. Neil Russell was a member of the local C company. With him was Lieut. H. T. Tattersall.

RECEIVES PIECE OF JERRY PLANE FABRIC

Two interesting recent letters have come to Mrs. E. A. Robinson, 28 Ontario St. W., from her husband, "Ted," Cpl. E. A. Robinson, on active service in England.

In one letter he returned to her an envelope which she had addressed to him, postmarked "Newmarket, May 27," which reached him with the imprint "Saved from the sea" on it.

In another he has sent her a piece of the metal fabric of a German plane. "Just a little piece of a Jerry plane we shot down a week ago today," the "zipped piece of metal" has on it: "Hieb Auf... Abtanken... Heib-Oel..."

Grain Loss Not Bad Yet But Weather Change Is Urgent

CONDITIONS NOT AS BAD AS IN WESTERN ONTARIO

SUN IS NEEDED

Grain loss is not serious yet in northern York county, but the outlook is not bright unless the weather changes shortly, The Era learned from W. M. Cockburn, county agricultural representative.

"Fifty or sixty per cent of the grain is out yet," Mr. Cockburn said. "It is wet one day after another. The grain doesn't get a chance to dry and is sprouting in the stook. How long the weather will continue as it is, no one can say."

"The cool weather has helped, as the grain hasn't sprouted as quickly as it would have done otherwise."

"If the weather were to clear now, it would mean opening up the stooks to get them dry. The sun would stop the sprouting. The loss is not so bad yet. There was a lot of grain that was down when it was cut, and the tangled grain in the stook doesn't let the rain run off like the straight straw does."

"Some farmers have good grain," Mr. Cockburn said. "A lot of the oats is light. A lot of the grain went down before it was well filled, and hasn't as high a feed value.

"In view of wheat being a drug on the market, I expect many farmers will mix the wheat with the spring oats and barley and feed it to compensate for the poor quality."

"It was wet in the spring, and the farmers couldn't plant in time. It was a wet summer and the grain didn't grow properly. Now it is wet again, and harvesting has been held up."

"Some farmers tried to avoid handling the grain twice, on account of the labor shortage, by stook threshing, with the result that the grain is still in the fields. And some have their barns filled already, waiting for threshing, and can't put any more grain in."

"Conditions are much worse in western Ontario, but in eastern Ontario farmers have been able to go right ahead."

Town's Finances Look Up Again As Tax Sale Held

ALL BAD CASES OF ARREARS CLEARED UP, TREASURER REPORTS

The town tax sale last week resulted in the clearing up of taxes against all the properties listed, N. L. Mathews, K.C., clerk, treasurer and solicitor, reported to the town council on Monday evening.

"I discover I am an excellent auctioneer," Mr. Mathews jocularly told the council. "There were 11 properties on the list for the tax sale. We have cleaned up all properties in bad shape now. Five property-owners redeemed their properties, and the other six were actually sold. The town didn't have to buy in any property."

"All properties sold for at least the costs and the taxes against them. Some sold for more than the taxes. The surplus is returned to the owner. It is very encouraging."

"The reason we have been so successful is that we didn't hurry to have the tax sales, but waited until the property was worth something," said Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd.

The council accepted an offer

Conservatives Pay Tribute To C. D. Howe's War Work

HON. C. D. HOWE WINS PRAISE OF FORMER PREMIER

"It is fine to know that we have such a great Canadian at the head of the munitions department," J. O. Little, prominent Conservative, said of Hon. C. D. Howe at a Lions club meeting on Monday evening.

Mr. Little was making an appeal as chairman of the district war savings committee, and was telling of an address he had heard by Mr. Howe on the same subject in Toronto last week.

"The Hon. G. Howard Ferguson said, in thanking Mr. Howe, that there are only two classes of citizens," said Mr. Little. "He said that there are those who support Mr. Howe and the government in their war effort and those who don't. Those who don't are aliens and should be interned."

POLICE COURT SEVEN DAYS PLUS IS DRUNK DRIVING REWARD

Harry Haines, 37, Forest Hill Village, was charged with dangerous driving, intoxicated driving and failing to produce a registration certificate in police court here on Tuesday before Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe. He pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and failing to produce a certificate.

Haines was weaving back and forth going south on Yonge St. in heavy traffic, on Saturday evening, Sergeant Sidney Barraclough said. Constable Aubrey Fleury laid the charges.

"He told us he had taken some soldiers to Camp Borden, and had had a couple of beers," said Sgt. Barraclough. "I also noticed that he had only one eye, which would not help matters."

"His co-ordination was slow, due, in my opinion, to drinking," said Dr. Devins. "He was in no condition to drive a car."

"A man can be quite under the influence due to lack of sleep and drinking and be quite keyed up and in better condition when in the doctor's office than when in the car," said Dr. Devins. "That slow co-ordination is the trouble of these drivers."

"Do you say he was intoxicated?" asked the magistrate.

"That is a matter of degree," said Dr. Devins.

"Was he under the influence of liquor?"

"Yes," said Dr. Devins.

"Do you always drive like that?" asked N. L. Mathews, K.C., crown attorney.

"I do not."

"How do you account for your driving?"

"I am not used to driving at night."

The magistrate found him guilty on the intoxicated driving charge.

He was fined $25 and costs, or 21 days, and seven days in jail, for dangerous driving, seven days in jail, concurrent with the other seven days, the car to be impounded for three months, license to drive suspended six months, for intoxicated driving.

"What explanation did he give?" asked the Magistrate.

"He said he wasn't familiar with the road," said Constable Morton. The constable said that there were five persons in the car.

"One tire was soft," Mr. Hossack told the magistrate.

"Why didn't you pay attention to the signs?" asked Magistrate Woodliffe.

"If your car won't take turns at 40 m.p.h., slow down. You'll break your neck if you don't."

and $1 for failing to produce a registration certificate.

"Can I appeal?" he asked.

"Yes, but you pleaded guilty to the dangerous driving," said Mr. Mathews.

"Seven days is the minimum for drunk driving."

A charge against Alexander Emmett, King township, of exceeding 30 m.p.h. on the Lake Shore road, North Willimbury, was dismissed. Constable Carl Morton gave evidence.

"In the morning the car was parked in front of my office all morning," said Mr. Emmett. "In the afternoon the car was at my residence at R. R. 3, King. It was a Saturday afternoon and we were busy on the farm. That was Aug. 24. On Sunday my car was locked up all day."

"You don't need to appear in a case like this," said the magistrate. "You can send an affidavit."

"I live only three or four miles away and my office hours are irregular," said Mr. Emmett.

A speeding charge against Albo Laitinen, Toronto, laid by Constable Joseph Jardine, East Willimbury, was dismissed when the charged man sent an affidavit to the effect that the car had not been out of the garage from Aug. 6 to Aug. 12.

"When did you clock this car?" asked the magistrate.

"Aug. 10 at 6 p.m.," said the constable.

Charged with careless driving, Clifford Hossack, Toronto, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Constable Carl Morton of North Willimbury township said that he and Constable Bernard Rye had seen Hossack's car swerve around a corner at 40 m.p.h., leave the road and suffer so much damage that it couldn't be moved.

"I never had a tail-less cat, and I do not believe I could ever become attached to one. There are several beautiful Persian cats round our neighborhood, and no doubt they have spoiled us all for a Manx cat, or even a common, everyday 'alley' cat."

Indeed, cats are very scarce around my home for some reason, except as I say the several Persian cats, and as a rule they seldom if ever leave home to wander far in search of adventure. But there are some splendid doggie boy-friends, and I am never on my verandah very long before I have one or often two coming up the steps for a visit. In fact, I have had as many as three at a time, and I have to pat them all and fuss over them so they won't get jealous.

They know I always save a bone for them, and I know that their master or mistress doesn't mind, because I made good and sure before I ever fed them. They know, too, that I always have fresh water for them—and they know, also, that there is a welcome for them and they try to let you know in their cute way they appreciate it.

I always like to be sure the squirrels are safe when the dogs come to call. I suppose up in our part of the town we have made them rather a nuisance, for they are so tame they come right up on the verandah to you, and think nothing of eating out of your hand!

There were some summer visitors next door to me last month, from away far north of Lake Superior, and what fun they did have with these squirrels, to be sure, yes, and they got several fine snap-shots of them as well! But one morning we had a good laugh. My neighbor had come over to read me an interesting letter she had just received and we were still sitting on the verandah when the assessor came down the street and turned up my walk—I wondered why he stopped on the steps but when he laughingly said, "Have you any pet squirrels around here?" I began to see why.

I assured him there were none at the present time of speaking, but I thought I could accommodate him if he really wanted some—or was he going to put them down on my assessment slip. Laughingly he came up to take the offered chair and told us that further along up the street he got the surprise of his life when a bushy-tailed black squirrel climbed up on his knee and up his arm to sit on his shoulder! They have evidently been both round here, a second generation, and have no fear of us humans, and we all would resent it strongly if we caught anybody injuring them or molesting them.

There is one chap in town who raises little fur-bearing animals as a hobby—and incidentally to make a bit of pocket money. I may tell about it some other time but I am making this too long and I want to tell about the letter I had from the same person in Muskoka as before telling me about the beaver family under the bonhouse at their summer home.

They saw the tiny beaver baby one day out for a ride on its mother's back—and another day they saw the father and mother beaver teaching the baby to swim—one day they piled up a board on the dock and put a few apples and carrots and beets down for them. You see, they had been reading up and Grey Owl said they were fond of these things, and you know beavers were his specialty. They often saw beaver fur rubbed off on the logs and places where they have sharpened their teeth on the pier of the dock.

Have you noticed the flocks of birds flying round? Soon they will be leaving us. It looks as if they are prearranging for their long journey south. The Robins seem to be particularly scarce, but they haven't gone yet—but it will not be long now. And the Gulls were so scarce, too, up at

OUR FURRY FRIENDS

By GOLDEN GLOW

The other day, as I went downtown, a huge yellow and white Manx cat came trotting down the lawn at one of the homes along the street and proceeded to navigate across the road, quite unperturbed amid the traffic, for there were several cars passing at the time, several children quite near, and other grown-ups besides myself, and a few dogs not too far away as well.

It just trotted along quite unconcerned and on up the cement walk to the verandah at the side of the house opposite. We all watched it, and I must admit nobody seemed to admire it! But it was so unconcerned! So aloof! Its apology for a tail stuck straight up, and it seemed to have such tremendously long legs. You know we always expect a cat to be graceful, and as a general rule its tail is one of its chief attractions, its chief beauties, and I must say a cat gives its tail an extra "polish off" when it pretties itself up—but that Manx cat was neither graceful nor pretty and its tail was a scream!

I never had a tail-less cat, and I do not believe I could ever become attached to one. There are several beautiful Persian cats round our neighborhood, and no doubt they have spoiled us all for a Manx cat, or even a common, everyday "alley" cat.

Indeed, cats are very scarce around my home for some reason, except as I say the several Persian cats, and as a rule they seldom if ever leave home to wander far in search of adventure. Lake Simcoe last week. Some day we'll wake up and find them all gone—all but the Starlings. Then the Sparrows will come to us for the winter and we'll be putting out suit for the Chickadees and Red-headed Woodpeckers. But, before that, will come the annual gathering of the fallen leaves—a ready-made maple leaves have turned scarlet. Last week was a foretaste of what's to come! We had our furnace going! But this week the weather is gorgeous.

In Memoriam

Main—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Main, Keswick, who passed away September 13, 1933.

Time speeds on, two years have passed, Since death its gloom, its shadow, cast.

Within our home, where all seemed bright, And took from us a shining light.

We miss that light, and ever wish His vacant place there is none can fill.

Down here we mourn, but not in vain, For up in Heaven we will meet again.

Sadly missed by wife and daughter.

IVAN CHAS. DAY

WEDS ELLA COWIE

Under an arch of gladness a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Oshawa on Aug. 28, when Ella Adeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cowie, was united in marriage to Sapper Ivan Charles Day, U. C. E., Petawawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Edward Day, of Lindsay.

The groom, until a few months ago when he enlisted, was living in Newmarket, and worked at the Office Specialty.

Rev. H. Wolfram of Lindsay performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly gowned in white corded sheer, over tulle, floor-length, and made on tailored lines, with finger-tip veil. She wore the brooch which had been worn by her grandmother 65 years before, and which had also been worn by her mother and sister.

Her bouquet was Briarcliff and Johanna Hill roses, with sprays of heather sent from England by the groom's aunt, Miss H. Stubbins.

Miss Muriel Cowie was bridesmaid, wearing a Queen's blue frock made like the bride's, with small flowered hat. The groom's brother, Mr. Frank Day of Lindsay, was best man.

At the reception following, the bride's mother received, wearing navy crepe and corsage of roses, assisted by the groom's mother in surf blue crepe and corsage of roses.

For the wedding trip through eastern Ontario the bride wore a navy tailored suit with white accessories.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Crossberry of Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. B. Edward Day, Mr. Ralph Day and Mrs. R. Wolfram, Lindsay, Mr. W. D. Cowie, Miss E. Day, Toronto, Mrs. F. McCleary, Mr. G. A. Cowie, Sunderland, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Park, Cannington, Mr. and Mrs. T. Henstock and Bobby, Whitby.

—Among those who will be attending the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Zebadiah Harden of Newmarket is Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Haskett, 60th wedding anniversary.

Celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary next week, Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Haskett of Long Branch think there is not the slightest doubt of England winning the war.

"Of course England is going to win—Hitler is a terrible man, killing helpless women and children the way he does, and God would never allow him to gain the final victory," they devoutly declare.

Mrs. Haskett was born in England and still considers herself a Cockney, although she came to Canada as a girl of six. She hates to think of the empire's capital being bombed.

Mr. Haskett was born in Newmarket of pioneer Irish parents and is 81 years of age. His wife is 77 years old. Both are well and active. Mr. and Mrs. Haskett are former residents of Newmarket. Mr. Haskett being the eldest brother of the late Geo. Haskett and uncle of Bill and George of Newmarket. He was the G. T. R. baggage-man here. Mr. Haskett's hobby is his garden and a few years ago when the horticultural society was active in Long Branch he won many prizes at the local flower shows.

Mr. Haskett worked with the C. N. R. for 38 years and a son, Gordon, following his father's footsteps, is an engineer with the same road.

Married in Toronto in the old St. John's Anglican church, known at that time as the "soldiers' church," the couple lived in Newmarket and Toronto, later moving to Hamilton and then Long Branch. The couple are fond of their radio, but have no use for movies.

Mrs. Haskett said that she had only seen one movie and that was when the talkies first came out and her son wanted her to go with him to see what they were like. Mr. Haskett said he had seen two or three "but never could see much in them." He enjoys baseball, hockey and prize-fight broadcasts, however, and only recently took a trip to Toronto to see the Maple Leafs play.

The couple attend services at the Long Branch Presbyterian church every Sunday the weather is fine.

They have a family of two sons, Harry of Hamilton and Gordon of Mimico, and two daughters, Mrs. H. Bayliss of Long Branch and Mrs. W. Love of Toronto. There are 17 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

BOY SCOUTS INVITE NEW MEMBERS

The Aurora Boy Scouts had their first fall meeting last Wednesday at Dr. G. A. C. Ganton's house.

The meeting was called solely to discuss plans and business. Kenneth Jones was appointed second in the building patrol. David Snell is patrol leader. Charlie Egan was appointed quartermaster for the group. David Snell was re-elected treasurer and John Crystale became secretary.

The fees were set at five cents a week out of which certain badges were to be paid for. A camp fund was also started, boys putting in as much as they wanted to each week, to be credited for the camping trip next summer.

Dr. Ganton was asked to get the use of the high school gymnasium, which he did. From now on meetings are to be held there every Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock.

To the fellows who think it's expensive to join Scouts, as stated above, the fees are five cents a week. After two months scouting the boy will want to buy a uniform. When a boy is in Scouts it is so interesting that jobs are easy to get and soon he has his uniform. Ask any of the fellows who are Scouts. Boys wishing to join should come to the patrol leaders or Charlie Egan any time, or come to the meetings at the high school on Wednesday nights. The fee limit is 12 to 16. Now is the time to join, when the season's activities are just getting started. The patrol leaders are David Snell, Bulldogs, and John Crystale, Paces.

MRS. CAL. DAVIS DIES FROM HEART ATTACK

A well-known and cheery personality passed on with the death this morning of Mrs. Calvin Davis at her home, 163 Main St., where she had lived for the last 20 years. Mrs. Davis was a very friendly woman.

Mrs. Davis was only in her 55th year but had suffered heart attacks during the last three years. She had an attack last night and died this morning.

The funeral service will be held at Roadhouse and Rose funeral chapel on Saturday at 2:30 p.m., with interment at Newmarket cemetery.

Rev. Burton Hill will conduct the service. Pallbearers will be Alvin Blair, Homer Blair, Donald Blair, Kenneth Blair, Clifford Pipher and Gordon Brillingier.

Mrs. Davis was an adherent of the Presbyterian church.

Marjory Blair was born at Caledon East, the daughter of Jennie Weir and Charles Blair. Her family moved to Newmarket 40 years ago, and in April, 1910, she married Calvin Davis, of Newmarket, who survives her.

One of a family of 17, several of whom died in infancy, Mrs. Davis leaves seven brothers and sisters: Alfred Blair, Fire Valley, B.C., Emmerson Blair, Newmarket, William Blair, Niagara Falls, Mrs. Welly Pipher, Newmarket, Herbert Blair, Owen Sound, Norman Blair, London, Mrs. Wm. Brillingier, Angus, Ont.

Mrs. Davis was fond of needlework and many lovely things about her home attested her skill in this hobby.

PEPPER AND SALT

By PEP

If the Redmen and Richmond Hill keep their softball argument on the coals much longer Newmarket fans will be able to chew both the softball and hockey fat this coming winter instead of sticking to only the winter pastime. Reports so far indicate that there will be no league champion (officially, that is, since the Richmond Hill aggregation proved to be the best, with no claims barred, team in the league) this year. Perhaps the record book will say: "Year 1940, no champion declared, due to war conditions." That will be an easy way out.

Local high school sports activities are getting slowly under way. It's expected that the biggest 'do' of the year, the annual sports day, will be held in the spring this semester. This test should tell whether or not the spring meet will be an improvement on the autumn festival.

Pickering College seems to like the spring idea and many another high school, collegiate and college is of the same opinion. I personally think that it is the up and coming young physical training instructors who are educating their prexies' minds as to the advantages of holding track and field meets in the spring. These advantages are a lengthy training period for the athletes, fine weather for the meet, flashy spring frocks in attendance and a nice write-up in the papers the next day.

Some teachers think that a spring meet will do harm to a pupil's chances of examination success, but I don't hold with that at all. After the meets those who have taken part are in good physical condition, which is usually necessary to good mental condition. So the student's wits are sharpened rather than dulled by his taking part in a spring field meet.

ST. PAUL'S W. A. SEWS FOR RED CROSS

The Red Cross sewing circle, in connection with St. Paul's W.A., met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Spence, Niagara St., on Tuesday of this week, and today all the members of the W.A. are holding their monthly devotional and business meeting at the home of Mrs. James Hiller, Huron St.

The regular weekly meetings start in October, when once again the Dorcas work will be carried on as usual.

SAYS DRAFTEES WON'T DRILL WITH MILITIA

With reference to an editorial, "More than 30 days," appearing on page two, remarks reportedly made in Vancouver yesterday by Hon. J. L. Haldston, minister of national defence, are interesting. Mr. Haldston indicates that graduates of the training camps will be attached to militia units but will not have to drill with them.

Sees U.S. In War In Four Months And Victory For F.D.R.

"I fully expect the United States will be in the present war not later than the end of January," Dr. Frank Andrews, of Richmond, Texas, a former Aurora boy, who has been visiting here, told The Era before leaving for home. The sentiment is 90 per cent for the British Empire in the United States, and the people of Texas at least seem reconciled to the fact that America cannot stay out of the war," he said. "If conscription is not introduced, but a system, such as Mr. King has introduced here, is used there will not be a real deal of argument. The isolationists are not nearly as strong now as last year, but they are the ones that squawk the loudest and so get more space in newspapers."

Dr. Andrews felt that Roosevelt would be returned, although his business was against him. The farmers and working men were solidly behind "F.D.R." and unless Wendell Wilkie made huge gains in the fall (although the election would be closer than last time) the Democrats could count on being returned.

"If Mr. Roosevelt perceives a growing feeling for Wilkie who can expect him to have the States in the war before election time, and he would conduct his campaign with that impetus," Dr. Andrews said. "If there is no action taken it will be because he calculates his chances safe. Mr. Wilkie is pro-British too but he would likely move more slowly, as it would take some time for things to become adjusted if he was returned. You can count on your American cousins to the end."

Many Texas boys were ready and anxious to fight but unfortunately many of them had been turned down last year. "If they thought they could get in you would have thousands of them coming north," he said. "It seems too bad not to accept them and it would help solidify opinion in the U.S.A."

Dr. Andrews is the son of Mrs. J. Andrews, Wellington St., and after attending the local high school graduated in medicine and arts from the University of Toronto in 1929. He interned at St. Michael's College, then took post-graduate work at Detroit, and Beaumont, Texas, before settling down to practice at Richmond, which is close to 2,000 in population, "not including Negroes and Mexicans," as he describes it. He will travel 1,700 miles on his return trip, a distance that has been shortened from over 2,000 miles by the straightening of roads carried on by the Roosevelt administration under a relief WPA scheme.

Popular Ex-Mayor Will Be Military Camp Officer

The announcement has been made by Military District No. 2 that Mrs. C. R. Boulding of Aurora, and J. C. R. Edwards of Newmarket, have been appointed as medical officers for the training camp at Newmarket.

Aurorians are proud that one of their outstanding citizens has again joined the colors and received a well merited appointment. He will, however, be lost to this community, as he will continue to reside at his Aurora residence. Dr. Boulding served in the last war as a lieutenant with the 55th battalion, enlisting in September, 1915. In England his battalion became a part of the 1st brigade and in 1916 he was in the thick of military operations at the Somme. At historic Vimy ridge on April 9, 1917, he commanded the right wing of the Canadian corps and one of his most prized possessions is a copy of his orders for that occasion, a complete order for the whole operation. On May 3rd, 1917, he was wounded at Fresnoy, and was invalided back to Canada.

He has always taken an active part in the war veterans' associations and welfare and is a past president of the Aurora branch. In 1927 he was appointed medical officer for the 12th Yorks Regt., (Page 8, Col. 6)

VIVIAN FOREST INSPECTED BY 1,000 CHILDREN

Despite leaden skies some 1,000 school children from all parts of York county gathered at Vivian forestry reserve on Wednesday for the York county forestry conservation picnic.

The children came by truck and car and the majority picnicked on the grounds. At half-hour intervals trucks from the provincial department of lands and forests carried loads of children through the forest trails until after six o'clock. W. M. Cockburn, local agricultural representative, acted as master of ceremonies, and everything went off with clock-like precision. The trip was an eye-opener to children, parents, teachers, and all who took the trip over the 1,300-acre tract.

Reeve Wm. Pugsley acted as chairman of the day and speeches were brief and to the point. J. H. Porter, editor of the Farmer's Advocate, Reeve Earl Toole of Whitechurch, Deputy Reeve Hugh Donald of Forest Hill village, county commissioner, Reeve Jas. Rennie of Markham, and C. R. Purcell, dominion president of the Men of the Trees association, all spoke.

Chief speaker of the day was W. C. Cain, deputy-minister of lands and forests and a former North York boy.

"We have a sacred duty to perform now in seeing our forests are preserved," he said. "Waste of all kinds must stop."

DOWN THE CENTRE

SEPTEMBER MORN:

No interscholastic track meet? That may be the decision for this year reached tonight as the representatives of the four district secondary schools gather in Richmond Hill. Personally, we chant "Say it isn't so," as it is one of the highlights of the year and a day spent in the open full of high school gladiator, pretty co-eds, real competition, and the excitement of the Eckhardt trophy tabasco is something we look forward to, as do hundreds of others, some in the greybeard class, each year.

Richmond Hill, we understand, is prepared to call it off for a year. Markham probably too, while Aurora is as yet undecided. Newmarket's attitude we don't know, but with a team top-heavy with stars they'll likely want to carry on. The smaller schools are said to be handicapped by the fact that several of their athletes are still on the farm, while others are trying to make the air force and haven't come back to school as they would ordinarily have done.

Besides, the war phase has some adherents, who believe the high schools should go intercollegiate and call off inter-school competition pro tem.

Carry on should be the slogan this year in all branches of sport. Let us not lose the precious heritage we have while we have it, and athletic competition, especially among the youngsters, is one of the big things in the survival of the fittest. Granted one team may be top-heavy, granted that the teams may not be as strong as in other years, give us good clean competition. Aurora, incidentally, will be the site of the meet if it is held this year.

Burns and Reesor. We admit it sounds like a comedy team but in reality the combination represents the provincial lawn bowling doubles champs, to whom we doff a congratulatory chapeau. Both men battled through tough competition to win the honors and the local bowling group rates a bit higher now. Reesor, where have we heard that name before? You guessed it. It's the same little debonair slapsy-Maxie who is so popular in Newmarket, Aurora and all points in North York. The hockey official and coach who combines both, which is nice work if you can get it.

Markham is pretty well shot next year if we are to judge from all reports, so far as hockey is concerned. But out of Richmond Hill comes a startling rumor that the hill-billies who will be back in C company again will be coached part time at least by no less a personage than Red Horner, the old sultan of swoosh, who is now handling coal for a Toronto firm in this district. Your guess is as good as mine as to the accuracy, but that's as we hear it.

That's definitely out so far as a risk of artificial nature is concerned, which may or may not put Bolton back into the picture, but which just now at least is interesting to certain others.

Horseshoe pitching at the York county conservation picnic was the only form of athletic entertainment in sight and we enjoyed a few pitches with Charlie Malloy against Clarence Downey and Gearing, the reeves of Swansea, who made us look rather weak but afterwards confessed to considerable practice on the community pitches. The real match was when Stan Osborne and Mrs. Jesse Cook teamed up.

NEW RECTOR NAMED FOR TRINITY CHURCH

The new rector of Trinity Anglican church, succeeding Rev. G. O. Lighthour, who some months ago resigned as incumbent of the parish to accept an appointment as chaplain with the R.C.A.F., will be Rev. Kenneth Perdue of Lakeview, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Perdue were in town yesterday meeting church officials and seeing for the first time Trinity church and the Anglican rectory. Rev. Mr. Perdue is a young man and has especially achieved success in young people's activities. He is a graduate of Trinity College and following his ordination to the Anglican priesthood was curate of St. George's church, Toronto, later becoming rector at Lakeview, where he was most popular.

FIRE BRIGADE WILL RESUME SOCIAL EVENINGS

At a meeting held on Monday evening, the Aurora fire brigade decided to resume their weekly social evenings each Thursday, which proved so popular with the citizens last spring. The first social evening will be held in the Mechanics' hall on Tuesday, Oct. 3.

REFUGEE CHILDREN ARE ATTENDING LOCAL SCHOOL

Two charming youngsters from London, England, are the wartime guests of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Y. Lencoe, 409-411 North. They are Tonia and Josephine Purdy, aged 13 and 10 years respectively. Both children feel at home in Canada and are attending school here. Tonia is in Miss M. Chapell's class, while Josephine is in Miss E. Robinson's grade.

against Miss Button and Deputy-Reeve Jesse Cook in a competition that included both skill, platform speeches and plenty of guess-work. All of which makes us think that we small-town communities are allowing the country boys and city slickers to steal one of our own games, which costs little to play and provides plenty of fun. Remember the matches in the town park, but that's yesteryear we guess.

Jim Hanson gets a well-deserved orchid for his fine race last Saturday. The youngster is the big development of the year locally and if he keeps training and the size of his hat the same he is definitely tabbed for big things in the bike game.

Ted Terry annexed the Leacock trophy Sunday as he took Bill Boaka four up and three to play over the 36-hole route on Sunday in the handicap event. Bill, forced to give strokes, made a gallant stand, but Terry was just steady enough to take honors, as the veteran pulled a Sam Snead finish with a jittery putter.

Friday night the golfers will gather at the clubhouse to get down to brass tacks on the few remaining events. Howard Follott was a welcome addition to Norm Johnson when he came back to school for this semester on Tuesday.

King and Schomberg are still in the fight in the fast closing rural softball championships, the berg in A and the King boys in B. Guess who's who was what puzzled us, when we looked over the semi-finalists in the two loops, and you can win yourself a brace of trumps if you can guess the locality of these centres first time out. Schomberg's opponents included as a whole such brain-twisters as Budjeros, Sullivan, Eramosa, Jerseyville, Strabane, Yr. Eden Mills and Tiverton in A, while the B first-round survivors had Holland, Dundas, Alton, Bright, Beverly, Townsend Centre, South Waterloo and Haldimand as ultimate opponents for the York county representatives.

John McComb may be headed towards Parry Sound or Buffalo in the near future unless something locally develops. The Joiner will be greatly missed by Aurora fans if he isn't on hand for the winter, for he always gave his best, asked no quarter, and was 100 per cent loyal to the local team.

York Rangers have a few athletic stars of note in their ranks and some who, given the opportunity, would soon develop, and it's just possible when things settle away a bit the battalion may turn up with one or two teams in the various sports.

"Wish you were here." We got a card from one of our friends with the Irish at camp, and we couldn't help but feel there really was something, for there are a swell bunch of fellows over at Niagara. Even that September morn feeling which comes in weather like this, if you know what I mean, wouldn't it be hard to take with a mob like that. Remember the damsel with a towel a few years back?

Definitely, Richmond Hill are through with softball for the season. All of which clearly puts it up to the league "executive" to foregather and declare a winner. Better have a full meeting now than let it simmer all winter and boil over in the spring. In any case, don't be surprised if the Hill leads a revolt movement when it's all on the carpet. That's "30" for us on softball locally.

HANSON WINS MILE CYCLING RACE AT C.N.E.

Sixteen-year-old Jimmy Hanson, Wellington St., brought honor to Aurora last week when in the Canadian junior one-mile championship race at the C.N.E. on Saturday he flashed home in front of a big field. Hanson's triumph is the result of a season's hard work, and the competition obtained in the Aurora cycling club's weekly meets. Although one of the youngest riders in the club, Hanson has starred all season in the meets against Oshtawa and the Dawson trophy races. His winning time was 2:59.

Ciff Chapman, the Aurora club champion, competing in the B three-mile miss-and-out race placed second behind Billy Melroy of Lang Branch. The winning time was 7:12, which Chapman usually beats, but, owing to a break in training, the Aurora boy was not up to his usual form.

Tom Roesch and Harold Foster, two other Aurora boys, competed in the meet and, while they made a nice showing they just missed getting in the money. John Offord had charge of the riders. Hanson needed assistance to carry off his honors as the win netted him 72 lbs. of flour, 60 lbs. of sugar and a case of canned goods.

Employees Face Second Payless Week Of Waiting

Mayor J. M. Walton told The Era today that he did not know if there would be a council meeting on Monday. Asked if there had been any meetings this week, he also said he did not know.

"I am not doing anything at present," he stated. Dr. G. A. C. Gunton, the councillor who has raised the issue as to the legality of the mayor's position, is away, but it is understood that he will be in touch with municipal department officials at Queen's Park tomorrow.

"I haven't received any notice of a council meeting," Clerk Willis said today. "No notices will be sent out unless I do. I don't know what is going to happen."

Among other councillors the rumor is heard that if the mayor isn't going to sign cheques, somebody will be appointed to sign them.

TORONTO WOMAN, LOVER OF ANIMALS, ASKS HER OWN ASHES STREWN IN PET CEMETERY

One of Aurora's unique features came into prominence this week when the will of the late Mrs. Florence Capstick, Glenforest Rd., Toronto, was read, for Mrs. Capstick, by testamentary disposition had instructed her executors to scatter her ashes in the grounds of Happy Woodland cemetery, a pet cemetery on Yonge St. south, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Blochin.

This is probably the first occasion that anything of this nature has ever occurred, according to Mrs. Blochin and certainly it is the first occasion in the history of the pet cemetery.

"Mrs. Capstick was an unusual person, with a tremendous devotion to animals," she said. "Her kind deeds were known throughout north Toronto, and she taught kindness to dumb animals to little children. She was not a contributor, nor did she have any pets buried here, but she did pay us frequent visits. Many people have expressed a desire to be buried in our cemetery, but, of course, that is not possible by law. Mrs. Capstick's plan, however, cannot be prohibited. We knew nothing about it, but knowing her character we are content in the matter."

"Mrs. Capstick was a frequent contributor to pet columns and magazines."

TOWN LOSES DENTIST

Aurora citizens learned with regret this week that Dr. R. E. Robertson, D.D.S., was retiring from active practice in Aurora owing to ill-health. The son of Dr. R. E. Robertson of Collingwood, and a recent dental graduate, he came to Aurora last fall to take over the practice of the late Dr. E. V. Underhill.

He soon won himself many friends and a successful practice, but this summer has carried on against physician's orders. Citizens join generally in expressing the hope that he may soon be in good health. It is understood that he intends to recuperate at his home in Collingwood.

BRIDE WED IN AIR-FORCE BLUE

Rev. Dr. E. J. Thompson of Aurora performed the ceremony. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rutledge of Toronto.

The bride was lovely in a frock of air-force blue chiffon over taffeta with tiny pink flower hat. She carried a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Rutledge had chosen a gown of wine-colored velvet with hat to match. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the bride's new apartment on Yonge St., Mrs. N. Banbury and Mrs. Johnston receiving with the bridal couple.

For travelling the bride wore black wool crepe with hat and accessories to match. Following a trip to northern Ontario, they will reside on Yonge St., Aurora.

RED CROSS DISPLAY WORK IN WINDOWS

The Aurora Red Cross has a splendid exhibit of the work being done by the branch in Fred Rowland's window this week, that is drawing much favorable comment.

Aurora still awaits an Alexander to cut the Gordian knot that still ties up the municipal machinery for the signing of cheques, or a Solomon to deliver judgment on the tricky legal points involved in the stalemate that has lasted a week in the town's affairs.

No meeting of council has yet been held and the soonest a meeting might be expected is next Monday. "We adjourned last meeting to meet then," said Deputy-Reeve C. E. Sparks. Unless a solution is arrived at within 24 hours Aurora civic employees will thus face another payless Saturday.

On Monday Reeve C. A. Malloy called a committee meeting at which only three councillors and Town Solicitor L. C. Lee were present. These were the Reeve and Councillors John Stuart and Dr. G. A. C. Gunton. Only the mayor has power to call a legal meeting of council any time, but the mayor must call council together if the majority of the members of council petition him to do so as provided in section 23 of the Municipal Act.

"It looks as though we will have to get the department of municipal affairs to straighten out this tangle," Dr. Gunton said Monday evening.

By section 333 of the Municipal Act, the department of municipal affairs is empowered to deal with the finances of a municipality. (Page 8, Col. 4)

Dalton Richardson has done the carpentry work on two of the jobs and, in addition, has completed a new roof on the residence of Alfred Brodie, Connaught Ave.

Bobbie says he likes Canada very much. His mother is Mr. Whitehead's sister and his parents are both in Scotland.

He, along with a sister aged 10 years, and his baby brother, aged 5, are in Canada until the war ends. Two of the children are with their uncle, while the third will be here shortly.

JUNGLE JUSTICE

BY JOHN SCOTT DOUGLAS

Helen Watson dived off the dropping aeroplane, counted ten as she fell swiftly into space, and then pulled her rip-cord. Her heart was pumping heavily as she waited for the parachute to billow open. Finally it "cracked" with a report that caused her eardrums to ring.

With a detachment which slightly surprised her, the girl gazed about as she fell. She saw the white-capped mountains under a broiling sun, the thickly-matted jungle which spread like a smooth green sea everywhere about her. Directly beneath her was the lake, shimmering like hammered bronze, unmarred by a ripple even where that inflated rubber boat rested in mid-centre.

It was this inflated boat, the kind carried by aeroplanes anti-dipping water landings, which had determined her to jump from the biplane piloted by her brother, Bradley. His aeroplane now buzzed over the jungle to the westward. The girl's anxious blue eyes darted back to the soggy rubber boat. Motionless in the lake's brassy centre, it still told its story. It was the first link in unrolling the mystery surrounding the complete disappearance of her father and older brother, March, a mystery now a week old.

A thousand feet above the lake, Helen prepared for the landing, loosening her "shute harness" so she could quickly free herself of its encumbering weight when she struck the water.

Fifty feet above the surface, she dropped free, striking with a great splash and plunging down—down—into the lukewarm lake. She drove herself swiftly to the surface, with powerful strokes of her slim, browned arms, and struck out for the boat. Although its soggy condition indicated days of exposure to a tropical sun, it still supported her weight when she clambered over the doughnut-shaped ring of inflated rubber to safety. She found a paddle and a hand-pump in the bottom; with the latter she pumped fresh air into the boat.

Glancing about for sight of a log-like shape, the girl was relieved to see none. If there were alligators in this lake, they had sunk into the mud to escape the merciless afternoon sun. Bradley's aeroplane was now silent. The absence of its pulsating beat left her feeling singularly alone. She felt small, chill fingers of terror creeping about her heart and fought a hysterical impulse to cry out.

Could her father have landed here? If so, where was the aeroplane March had piloted? Was it, too, swallowed up by the ever-creeping jungle? Swallowed up as had been the marks of a great Mayan civilization which now decayed in its depths?

Helen shuddered slightly as she picked up her paddle. For the first time, then, she saw a great, gleaming palace of white stone, with steps leading into the water. It was a Mayan edifice buried here in the jungle for centuries. "That explains what brought Father down to this lake," thought Helen, with a faint feeling of relief. "Funny Brad and I didn't see it before. But I guess that isn't so strange, after all, the way it's buried in jungle foliage."

She remembered that she had promised to call to Bradley after he had landed. It was too easily possible to become lost in that impenetrable tangle of palms, lush jungle growth, and liana vines. She called at intervals as she paddled toward the white stone palace and presently awoke the mocking echoes of the jungle. Monkeys chattered angrily in high drooping palms. Parrots commenced an agitated diatribe. Crimson flamingos beat long graceful wings against the dead air as they flew hurriedly away. She received no answer to her calls. Had Bradley been hurt landing in what, from a distance, they had supposed was a clearing?

As Helen approached the Mayan palace, her clear blue eyes grew wide with wonder. It was a structure of finely-fitted stones, surpassing anything she had ever seen for architectural beauty.

She drew her rubber boat up onto the tiny steps which fitted the small feet of a prehistoric people. Her heart leaped as she saw the marks of shoes in the age-old green slime on the bottom steps. They must be the tracks of her father or brother; the boat with the number of their aeroplane on it testified to that! Running up the steep stone stairway, she reached the top breathless and panting. Once more she called to Bradley. This time, percolating through the chattering of monkeys and raucous cries of parrots, his reply drifted to her.

She continued to call, her eyes meanwhile, sweeping the jungle-fringed shore of the lake. The water had been clear when she was in the boat close to the surface; now, from an elevation, it had turned brassy again. Nearly an hour later Bradley appeared at the bottom of the stairs, a machete, with which he had cut his way out of the "bush," gripped in his hand. He mopped perspiration off his bonzed forehead, and smiled up at her. "Any sign of Dad?" he panted.

"Footprints right near where you're standing," said Helen, then added hopefully, "He must be somewhere near. That's his boat, all right."

Bradley nodded, staring at its number. "This must have been a big city," he said, after a moment's rest. "I ran across decayed buildings all through the bush. And do you know why there was a clearing where I set down my plane? That spot had been paved with stone blocks at some distant time, Helen."

She nodded, her eyes filling with wonder. "The monoliths at Quirigua were erected around 551 A.D. These buildings must be much older—perhaps centuries."

"I guess I can make the climb now," said Bradley, starting up. When he had joined her at the top of the steps, they explored the rooms of the palace. The dust of ages had settled in niches and on protrusions which must have served as shelves. Here and there was a place where the dust was missing.

"Some one's recently taken relics from here," said Helen. "Trust an archaeologist like Dad," said Bradley, smiling. He must be somewhere around. But where is his plane?

"He had a land plane just as we did," said Helen. "He couldn't have landed in the lake. And that clearing's the only possible landing place near here."

Her brother's lips tightened in a white line and his lean, serious face sobered. "No one's ever landed there before," declared Bradley with certainty. "I'd have seen wheel tracks!"

It put a grim interpretation on their expedition. A week earlier Mr. Watson had left with March, his oldest son, from Guatemala City. He had made frequent trips over the jungle in search of a lost Mayan city whose only claim to existence lay in an ancient Mayan legend. Consequently, neither Bradley nor Helen had felt any concern regarding this particular flight until he had failed to return that night. Then their apprehensions rose.

The next day the two of them set out in the second aeroplane which Mr. Watson used in archaeological exploration. Both Helen and Bradley could fly a ship as well as March. Mr. Watson had given them all training when he decided to retire from business to devote the rest of his life to the furthering of human knowledge by archaeological research. One day Helen would take the controls, the next day, Bradley. They pushed farther and farther over the trackless jungle until on this, their sixth day of search, they had seen the rubber boat in the lake.

Helen's firm little jaw suddenly stiffened. "Listen, Brad, there's no use pretending Dad's somewhere around. He isn't, or he'd have heard all that clamor I was making to lead you here. We'll have to face facts and get to work before dark. Either Dad and Mark upset in the lake and drowned, or else they tried to escape through the jungle."

Bradley nodded solemnly. "That's logical. And if they took to the jungle, there's little chance of their getting through alive. It looks bad."

"Let's not jump to conclusions," Helen said hurriedly. "I'll search the lake, and you look for signs of their departure through the jungle. What say?"

Bradley agreed. Helen walked slowly down the steep stairs, pushing out again in the rubber boat. She had covered half the lake when she saw her father's aeroplane in the clear waters, quite plainly visible fifty feet below her. Helen was inclined to return to Bradley with her discovery, but some impulse drove her on to further investigation. She was glad it had, for at the opposite end of the lake, she uncovered something far more startling. Plainly visible in the short expanse of soft mud at that end were the pontoon marks of an aeroplane.

A second aeroplane, an amphibian, had landed at this lake shortly after her father had, evidently rescuing him! Why had not he communicated with them at Guatemala City if he was safe? She could find no satisfactory answer to this question so she paddled back to the palace.

Bradley met her on the steps, his face flushed with excitement. "I found where they'd camped for perhaps four or five days," he asserted. "They'd built a hatched hut against the side of the palace, and there were the bones of quite a number of iguanas. The number of reptile bones gave me an estimate of their length of stay. Something I can't understand though, is that their machetes are in the hut and there's only one place where they've cut into the bush, and then for only fifteen or twenty feet. It looks as if they'd tried to hide that trail, too. I can't understand it."

Helen laughed at her brother's seriousness, and then explained what she had learned. "Oh," said Bradley with relief, "then they got out safely. Perhaps just this morning."

"I'm going to take a look at that trail before we leave," said Helen. "The fact that they tried to hide it puzzles me."

She made her way around the palace with difficulty to the trail hewn through the heavily matted bush. At the end of the short trail she stopped, her eyes narrowed thoughtfully. Suddenly dead leaves to one side caught her attention, and she dove into the bush with a cry.

Under the dead leaves were a number of priceless archaeological finds: a beautifully carved golden disk; a number of strings of tiny golden bells, perhaps strings once worn by some Mayan princess; bronze and gold rings and earrings; gold-embossed plaques; obsidian knives with carved, golden handles; a malachite spindle whorl; a golden scepter; and jade ornaments. Last, but not least, was Mr. Watson's big camera.

For a minute Helen could not trust herself to speak. She looked up at Bradley with trembling lips, and saw his jaw muscles wobble and strained under his tan. "Brad, you know Father would never go away leaving these things behind him! Something's happened to him!"

"You're right," said her brother slowly. "There's something sinister about this whole business."

Panic began to seize Helen at her brother's words. Somehow the words of her minister back home came flashing into her mind, flooding her soul with relief. The sermon had faded into the limbo of the past, but his quotation had remained bright and shining in her mind. "Be still, and know that I am God." Those words had often saved her from anger, anxiety, like some quarrels. Now in this moment when it seemed that some terrible disaster had befallen her father, those words gave the girl hope and courage.

She said with calmness which surprised Bradley: "You're sure Dad didn't push through the bush?"

"Absolutely," said Helen with finality. "Come, we'll take these things he left with us. They represent a priceless find, Brad."

He stared at her for a moment in perplexity, and then, silently, he picked up the camera and his flying helmet with Mayan relics. They found their way to the clearing by the trail he had made, and pushed the aeroplane back to the extreme end of the stone amphitheatre.

It was a narrow squeeze, getting out of that clearing, despite the fact that Bradley "gunned" the biplane savagely for fifteen minutes before taxiing down the clearing. They brushed the tops of the highest palms, and then climbed in spirals above the lost Mayan city and the little lake.

They arrived without mishap in Ciudad de Guatemala, and sped along to the Palace Hotel in a taxi-cab.

Bradley asked at the desk if any telegrams had arrived, but the courteous clerk shook his head in a definite negative. Bradley paced the room like a caged lion when they reached their suite. "They would have communicated with us if they'd gotten out safely," he declared. "Something terrible's happened to Dad and March."

"Be still, and know that I am God," commanded some inner voice. "Don't let Brad stampede you into doing something you'll regret." Aloud, Helen said quietly, "Brad, will you please let me think this out clearly, and stop your pacing?"

Her brother stared at her a moment, shaking with anger. "You're hopeless! I'm going down to the telegraph office to see if any messages have come." He slammed out of the room.

Helen was relieved. Now, at least, she might have a chance to think. Suddenly an unforeseen possibility occurred to her, so simple that she marvelled she had not thought of it before. When Bradley returned soon after, she knew from his expression that there was no word.

"Come with me, Brad," she said. "I'm going to visit the various airports."

He followed without questioning. She went to three airports, asking about an amphibian. At the third she learned that one occasionally landed there. The owner was an archaeologist of more pretension than accomplishment. His name was Sidney Yandell, a name which stirred unpleasant memories in her mind.

Sidney Yandell had once been a member of the Royal Geographic Society, but had been requested to resign when her father, utterly unconscious that he was hurting anyone and seeking only the truth, had exploded Yandell's supposed discovery of heretofore unknown Mayan ruins. Her father had followed the trail of Stevens, an early writer about the ruins of Yucatan, and had published the photographs. Unwittingly Mr. Watson had caught some queer angles on some of the buildings; and Sidney Yandell, consciously taking only queer angles of the same long-known ruins, had been caught in his own deception through no intent of her father. Yandell's claim to fame faded when Mr. Watson's photographs proved that the impostor's lost city was only a photographic delusion, for the Tucatan city had been known for thirty years. Yandell had subsequently been asked to resign from the Royal Geographic Society, and he bore Mr. Watson an unreasonable dislike.

Helen had heard of late that Sidney Yandell was trying to vindicate himself in the eyes of the world by excavating for ruins in one of the small lakes north of Lake Peten.

The knowledge given her by the airport operator now awoke a whole new chain of reasoning. If the amphibian which had landed at that lake where her father had been was Yandell's there was new reason for apprehension.

"Can I do anything else for you, senorita?" asked the airport operator.

"No, thank you," she returned in Spanish. "You've told me what I wanted to know."

"And what was that?" demanded Bradley.

"Where we can find Dad."

He looked puzzled, then. "You think, Yandell..."

Helen frowned. "I won't accuse him without knowing. But it looks rather as though we had a clue."

The next morning the two set out on their journey toward the northeast, flying over the rugged crags of the Cordilleras, over blue, white, and red painted adobe houses, and small sleeping towns, and finally buzzed over the undulating sea of the jungle.

Finally they found the little lake which Helen had designated on her map, and searched for a landing field. Fortunately there was a narrow strip of beach where they could land.

Two ragged, bearded figures came running toward them. For a moment Helen shifted uneasily until she recognized the fine, broad forehead of her father, and saw the twinkle in his eyes. "How did you ever find us?" he demanded excitedly.

"We knew Yandell was excavating here, and we saw the pontoon marks of an amphibian where your plane had landed," Helen explained.

"Yandell is keeping us prisoners here," said Mr. Watson. "Searching for that same legendary Mayan city, he found us there. We hid our treasures and camera upon recognizing his plane. Naturally he was furious to be preceded to what he'd hoped to be his first big discovery. He tried to force us to promise to say nothing of our find. Failing in this, he brought us here and left for England to exhibit his photographs before the society."

Helen laughed shortly. "They won't believe Yandell, anyway, after his last fiasco. And he has nothing to show but photographs. We brought the relics you cached in the bush, Dad. That's the proof the world will recognize, together with your photographs to back them up. Yandell will finish himself this time!"

Mr. Watson was thoughtful. "I can't help him that we're free and that he may save himself the embarrassment of further exposure. There's a little good in the worst of us, and I'm going to give Yandell another chance."

Bradley laughed. "I guess I've lightened my load of gas sufficiently to take two passengers back to Puerto Barrios—it's closer than Guatemala City. And I'll come back later for you, March."

As they prepared for departure, Mr. Watson remarked, "Sometimes the jungle seems to melt out a grim sort of justice. There was a great civilization here once. Then the people followed false gods. The jungle punished them by destroying their cities. Today we've again seen the jungle melt out its grim justice in yielding the treasures I'd hidden that you might find me."

KESWICK

NEW MINISTER IS TO BE INDUCTED

At the induction service to be held on Friday evening, in the Keswick United church, Rev. Gordon Lapp will be formally inducted as minister of Keswick and Ravenshoe charges of the United Church of Canada.

The service which will begin at 8 o'clock, will be under the auspices of Toronto centre presbytery of the United church, with the chairman, Rev. Douglas Davis of King, presiding.

Rev. C. E. Fockler, former minister of the congregations, will address the congregation and Rev. E. P. McLean, general secretary of religious education, will preach the sermon. There will be a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Lapp after the service. All members and adherents of the church are urged to attend this important service.

On the special day of prayer Sunday, the morning service of the United church was largely attended. The choir sang a well-rendered anthem appropriate to the occasion and the sermon was ably preached by Rev. Mr. Armour of the British and Foreign Bible Society. As well as leading the thoughts of the people toward intercession to God for our cause in the war, he gave a vivid account of the work of the Bible Society, especially asking that help be given to make possible the sending of bibles to the airmen, soldiers and sailors.

Mr. Lapp, the pastor, will occupy the pulpit of the United church on Sunday, Sept. 15. The morning service will be a communion service.

The Mission Band of the United church will meet on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 12.

Mrs. McKinnon, Sr., is at home again and is improved in health.

Mrs. Ethan Morton is recovering from her recent illness.

AUTOGRAPHED BALL

The weather has been very much cooler, due to heavy rains Sunday and Monday.

Many of the farmers are busy preparing their fall wheat ground.

On Friday evening, Sept. 6, the Willow Beach ball team, with friends and relatives, enjoyed a sumptuous supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McNeill, Willow Beach.

Speeches were made by different members of the team, and an autographed softball was presented to Bill "Windy" Thompson, who was leaving Tuesday for army service.

NORTH GWILLIMBURY

BEACH ASSOCIATIONS

SEEK IMPROVEMENTS

North Gwillimbury township council met at Belhaven on Monday, Sept. 2. The first correspondence tabled introduced the matter of extending the hours for polling votes on the day of municipal elections to give non-residents more opportunity to vote. After a brief discussion a resolution was passed to extend the hours for polling until 7 p.m.

David Dunkelman interviewed the council regarding a ditch along the former radial right-of-way near his property.

A number of visitors from the summer population were present. Pine Beach, Elmhurst Beach, Indianola Beach and Willow Beach associations had delegations on hand to interview the council about various matters. Subjects discussed included subdivision roads, drainage, weed control, sanitary conditions and the possibility of securing lower Hydro rates.

Considerable argument developed at times and proceedings were rather mixed up. The council agreed to give any assistance they could in the Hydro matter but it was pointed out that the money available for road improvement, etc., was limited and probably would not suffice to meet all the demands all at once.

Appointments were made for the council to meet representatives of the associations at certain places where conditions were complained of and go into the matter on the ground.

The owner of a property subject to sale for taxes came to the council with a proposal to pay the arrears by monthly instalments. This arrangement was approved by resolution.

Accounts passed for payment: Hydro, Community hall, $5.16; Hydro, arrears collected, $53.02; M. Longhurst, account garbage contract, $50; Geo. McPhedran, $20; Keswick Christian church, $10; Grand and Toy, $49.85; Jos. Sheppard, $10; United Farmers Co-operative Co., $28.06.

Jas. Stevenson, stamps, $6; H. Nielsen, sheep claim, $9; A. King, $2; County of York Hospitalization, $39.37; Murray Munro, $10.80; Wm. Miller, $4.75; Amos Sweeney, $7.50; health dept., 38 cents; Hospital for Sick Children, 50 cents; C. D. Prosser, $10; G. P. Morliner, $4.50; Dr. O. M. Beattie, $10; Dr. F. G. CARSON POLLOCK LOSES STORE IN $5,000 FIRE

Fire broke out early Friday morning in the rear of the store of Carson Pollock, doing damage estimated at $5,000. The contents and building were totally destroyed, despite the efforts of a hastily organized bucket brigade, which fought to quell the blaze.

Mrs. Harry Babb, who lives next door to the store, was awakened by the smell of smoke and awakened her husband, Counsellor Harry Babb, who dashed to the home of Carson Pollock, who lives directly opposite the shop, and awakened him. He then organized the bucket brigade, but they soon found that their efforts were useless. The fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered.

Mr. Pollock, who has operated the combined restaurant, grocery store and refreshment booth for the past 15 years, will rebuild in time for next summer's business, it was stated. Only a small amount of insurance was carried on the buildings.

During the summer months, Mr. Pollock and his family occupied quarters in the building, but since the first of September had been living in a cottage just opposite the building. He stated that everything seemed in good order when he had closed the shop two hours before the fire was discovered.

AUDREY MURRAY IS SEPTEMBER BRIDE

Teston United church was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Audrey Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Murray of Maple, formerly of Newmarket, became the bride of Frederick Bruce Mortimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Mortimer, Queen St., Newmarket.

Rev. Douglas Davis of King officiated against a background of Pearly gladioli. The wedding music was played by Miss Edith Williams, cousin of the bride, and during the signing of the register Miss June Hill, Newmarket, sang "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocade organza de soie over white satin, fashioned with full skirt, basque waist and full leg-o-mutton sleeves. Her finger-tip veil, which had been worn by her mother, was held in place by white gardenias and she carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses.

Her only attendant was Miss Jean Smith of Newmarket, groomed in turquoise blue lace with halo of tulle and flowers and carrying roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Kenneth Woodcock of Newmarket. The ushers were the bride's brothers, Mr. Gordon Murray and Mr. Glen Murray.

AURORA EMPLOYEES FACE

pality "and any matter connected therewith" but they will only intervene if one of three steps is taken: 1, by departmental order; 2, by request in writing of three members of council, or 3, by a petition of 50 resident property owners. If any of these steps is taken the department will have jurisdiction to inquire into the matter.

Sec. 266 of the Municipal Act provides that by resolution of council a county judge may deal with questions of "good government," his powers being regulated by the Public Inquiries Act.

In addition to the question of Mayor Walton's right to continue to sit on council raised by Councillor Gunton another point is involved. The Municipal Act provides that all members of council must sign an oath of office, and by section 259 of the act the form used shall be form 10 unless special permission is obtained from the department to change this form.

Examination of the oaths of office taken by the various members of council last January show that the following clause has been omitted from the customary form, "and that I have not by myself or partner either directly or indirectly any interest in any contract with or on behalf of the said corporation."

There is no suggestion by anyone that any councillor took this oath of office knowing it to be incorrect. As a matter of fact no one knows when the town of Aurora commenced to use the incorrect oath of office, but it is an acknowledged fact that Aurora councils for some years back have been subscribing to a printed formal oath believing it to comply with the full provisions of the act, whereas actually the above clause was omitted.

Legal opinion expressed to The Era is that all previous acts of other councils are perfectly legitimate, and that since this year's council have acted in good faith all transactions to date that conform with the other provisions of the act are in order. Whether or not councillors will be forced to take a new oath of office is not known.

Mayor J. M. Walton has since last meeting of council abstained from taking part in any business of council but has not expressed his intentions. Presumably he is awaiting a legal ruling. He has remained steadfast to his declaration of last week that he would not sign any cheques until the situation was cleared up.

The local banks have all sought legal opinions from their head offices but no statements are forthcoming as to their attitude in the matter. It is believed by many that the question of the omission of taking the proper oath of office could soon be dealt with, but the question of the mayor's position would have to be definitely cleared. Many feel that a simple withdrawal of the letters of warning to the banks by Councillor Gunton would be sufficient, although there is no definite confirmation on this point.

Dr. Gunton believes the mayor to be disqualified from continuing in office because of the fact that as insurance agent he will presumably receive a commission for insurance placed with him by the town, and also because the mayor at the meeting of Sept. 5 voted on a matter in which he had an interest, contrary to section 217 of the Municipal Act.

One of his big thrills came when Aurora won provincial honors. He is president of the Aurora softball club, and has been a member of the Aurora golf club since its inception. He has also been closely associated with the Aurora cycling club.

Himself a talented singer, he married Irene Jinks of Toronto, an outstanding pianist, and both Dr. and Mrs. Boulding have been instrumental in the success of the York musical festival. He has been president for three years and already this year was re-elected for a fourth term.
